

American children to name the new Mars Rover!

NASA is asking for ideas to name its next Mars Rover! Children from the USA are all eligible to enter the competition on the NASA website, where they will be asked to submit a short essay explaining their choice. While entries are only being accepted from US students ahead of the 1st November deadline, anyone will be invited to vote on the final picks in a public poll in January. The rover is not scheduled to land on the surface of Mars until the afternoon of the 18th February 2021. It will arrive with four key aims: identify past environments capable of supporting life, searching for signs of life in those areas, collecting rock and soil samples, test oxygen production in the atmosphere.

What would you choose to call the Mars Rover? Let us know!

Pictured: Image of the Mars Rover 2020 from the NASA JRL Twitter page.

Upcycle your paddling pool

Pictured: A broken inflatable that was upcycled into a bag taken from the Wyatt and Jack Twitter page.

Ever wondered what you could do with a broken bouncy castle, popped inflatable or used rubber rings and arm bands? Now the summer holidays are over many of these items are thrown away and end up in landfill! Georgia Wyatt-Lovell and her husband Steven Lovell, from the Isle of Wight, set up company Wyatt and Jack in 2017. Ever since, their company has been collecting inflatables and turning them into rucksacks, bum bags, pouches and other accessories. She says that the business has saved over 100 tonnes of material from landfill. "They're quite nice, the objects, and people have memories attached to them," she says, recalling one customer, who was proposed to on an inflatable flamingo, and asked her to turn it into a bag. What would you upcycle into an exciting bag?

Disney announces new cruise ship

Pictured: Image of the new ships name taken from the Disney Parks Twitter page.

Disney Parks Chairman, Bob Chapek, revealed the name of the fleet's new ship, the Disney Wish, as well as the first drawings of the ship's three-storey structure, inspired by fairy tales and the Disney character that will be featured on the ship's stern, Rapunzel. The Disney Princess was chosen because of her "wish to see the world". Disney's other ships are called the Magic (which entered service in 1998), Wonder (1999), Dream (2011) and Fantasy (2012). The ship will have 1,250 guest staterooms and cruises will begin in January 2022. Disney revealed that the ship will be heading to a new Disney port of call in the Bahamas, the Lighthouse Point on the island of Eleuthera, which will include a special island experience.

"Siri, release my shoes"

Nike has developed a lacing system that uses a motor to tighten or loosen its trainers, and its latest version has voice control. Users can tell the voice assistant to "release my shoes" via the Nike Adapt app on their iPhone or Apple Watch. The accompanying app also allows people to customise the colour of coloured lights found on the bottom of the shoe, with the option to choose pre-set modes or create custom fit and light combinations. The 'Adapt Huarache' trainers will be available from the 13th September and are expected to cost over £300!

Pictured: The Adapt Huarache trainers taken from the Nike Twitter page.

I think...

YOUR COMMENTS

Email: help@picture-news.co.uk

Tweet: @HelpPicture

or post to: Unit 3, Phoenix Business Park, Ripon, North Yorks, HG4 1NS